Ingentis org.manager®

Access protection

Distributing information for specific target groups

In addition to creating conventional organizational charts, Ingentis org.manager offers a controlling and reporting function to display performance figures and critical information throughout the company hierarchy. Usually, such data is only intended for managers and not every employee. The access protection add-on allows you to restrict access to certain areas of your org chart, including certain information.
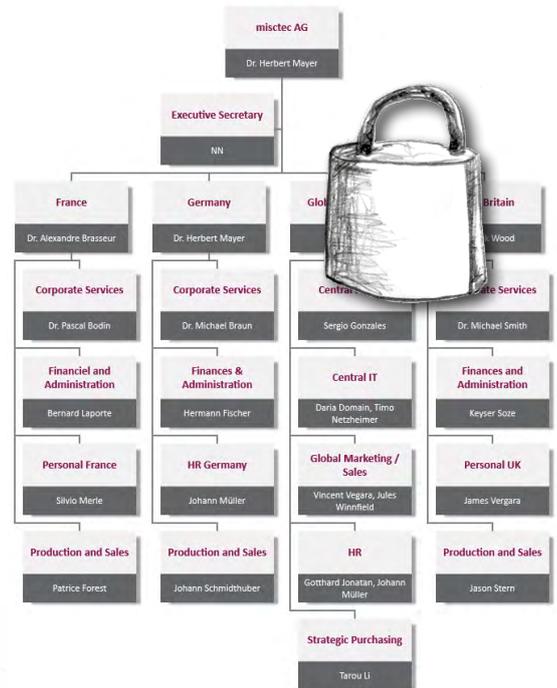

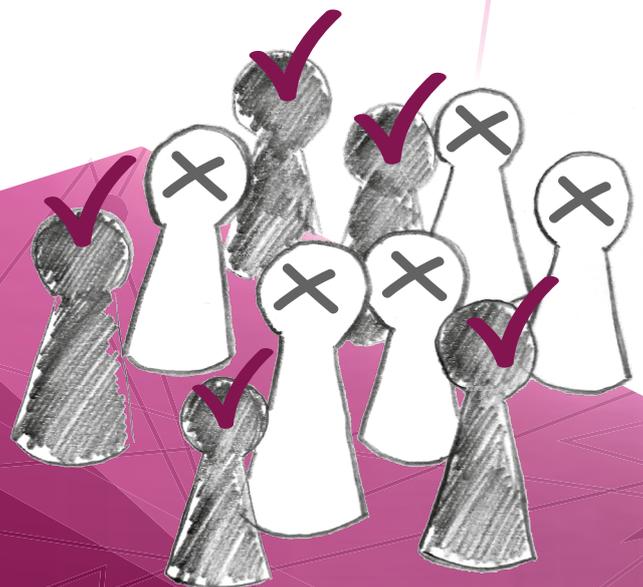

Freely defined access

A user-friendly interface enables the fast configuration of roles in order to manage individual access rights based on the data of your leading HR system. For example, managers usually receive extended access rights to organizational charts that contain sensitive information like KPIs. This information is blocked for the regular staff. Additionally the access right can be configured for hierarchical information such as 'from one's own department only'. The following options, or combinations thereof, are available:

Options

- Grant or deny access to organizational charts
- Activate or lock attributes
- Structurally limit or expand access
- Activate or lock print, search or export functions
- Grant or lock simulation rights

Cross-platform availability – on every device

You can conveniently retrieve the organizational charts cross-platform via a web browser - from your PC, tablet or smartphone. The defined access rules are considered individually for every user. As a result, only the released information is visible. This makes Ingentis org.manager a powerful addition to an existing ESS/MMS scenario, or the first step in successfully creating a new one.
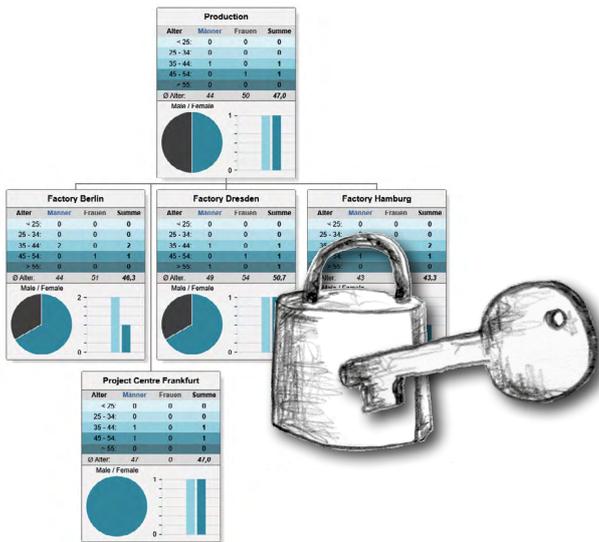

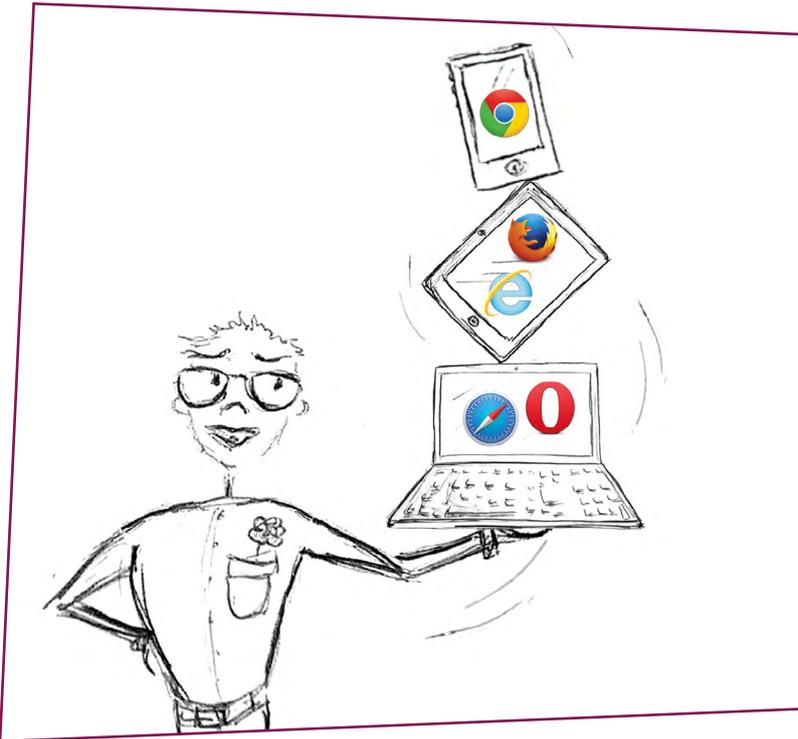

Authentication via Single Sign On

The organizational charts are accessed via Single Sign On, for example through the Active Directory Account. If an employee accesses the application via a web browser, Ingentis org.manager will recognize the person's position within the organization and display the respective charts based on the access rules.

Highlights

- Simple control of access authorizations
- Flexible control of print, search or export functions
- Cross-platform access from any device
- Ideal solution for an ESS/MSS scenario
