

Chen Chuanren
Senior Correspondent, Aviation Week Network
Air Transport World
South East Asia and China

Chen Chuanren is the South East Asia and China Correspondent for Aviation Week Network's Air Transport World, joining the team on July 2018.

Chuanren has a defence background, serving in the Republic of Singapore Air Force's Air Defence and Operation Command for five years before pursuing journalism.

He has a Diploma in Mechatronics (Aerospace) and a Bachelor Degree in Communications (Mass Communications). He continues to write on defence matters on a freelance basis.

Based in Singapore, he enjoys travelling around the region to find out more about the thriving aviation scene. He is married to his wife, Monica, and enjoys watching rugby with their house cat, Cosmo.

Sample Articles

Singapore Airlines grounds two 787-10s for engine blade cracks (2 April 2019)

<https://atwonline.com/engines/singapore-airlines-grounds-two-787-10s-engine-blade-cracks>

Analyst: Sale of Malaysia Airlines would face resistance (20 March 2019)

<https://atwonline.com/airlines/analyst-sale-malaysia-airlines-would-face-resistance>

AAPA calls on FAA, Boeing for clarity, timeliness in MAX resolution (13 March 2019)

<https://atwonline.com/safety/aapa-calls-faa-boeing-clarity-timeliness-max-resolution>

Routes Asia: PAL hints at global alliance leanings (10 March 2019)

<https://atwonline.com/airports-routes/routes-asia-pal-hints-global-alliance-leanings>